

Funders of Play

A guide to foundations, trusts and charities who support play in Scotland.

Introduction

The following guide contains eligibility, priority and contact details of organisations funding not-for-profit and charitable organisations in Scotland. It has been compiled for Inspiring Scotland's Go2Play programme and therefore focusses on potential funders of play activities.

Funders have been selected through a review of SCVO's 'Scottish Directory of Funding for Third Sector Organisations' and a web-based search. It is not a definitive list and there are likely some omissions. It is important to note that Funders have not been spoken to directly so information is as up-to-date as current web information in February, 2016. It is recommended that the guide is used for information only and where possible contact is made directly with each organisation to ascertain current funding criteria.

Advertised funding criteria have been reviewed for the potential for organisations facilitating different types play activity to seek funds. In line with the activities of current Go2Play the types of play activities have been divided into play sessions, play training, play resources and play spaces. The potential for funding has then been graded as per the table below.

Potential funds for:

PS – Play sessions: including one-off play events, regular play groups and play ranger activity

PT – Play training: including training for volunteers and staff to facilitate play and activities raising awareness of play

PR – Play resources: including funds for purchase of equipment to use in play

PSp – Play spaces: including play parks and community leisure spaces

Play and children and families or communities indicated as a priority

Play not specifically mentioned, but not excluded or; other particular requirements to be met or; general information on funding priorities

Some types of play activity excluded and; other major requirements to be met.

Information on particular priority groups for that Funder and required outcomes as a result of funded activity has also been included, where this information is available. In general, the majority of Funders are interested in meeting a defined need and overcoming disadvantage. It is therefore important for organisations seeking funds to make clear the disadvantage beneficiaries of their work face. For play organisations this includes outlining some of the effects if children are denied good play opportunities.

Pages 11-14 have a list of 'General Funders'. These are Trusts and Foundations which have very open funding criteria. There is not sufficient information available on the web to determine how likely they are to fund play activity, however they are current and therefore another potential source of funds.

Page 15 has a list of currently closed funds. They have however previously funded play type activity or indicate that children, young people, families and communities have been priority groups. They are therefore included to review for future possibilities.

An Appendix document also lists and categorises potential funders that fund specific geographic communities.

Below is a list of Trusts and Foundations that, at the time of compiling, advertised very general funding criteria and guidance for applying. All are current in that they submitted OSCR returns which indicated some donations in the last financial year, however it is not clear in some cases HOW, or how often, they make these donations.
